Dyson
College of Arts and Sciences

PACE UNIVERSITY
Work toward greatness.

The Department of Communication Studies of Dyson College of Arts and Sciences at Pace University invites applications for an anticipated tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level to begin September 2018. The position is located at the University's New York City campus in lower Manhattan.

Applicants should have an earned PhD or equivalent in Communication or Media Studies. We are especially interested in candidates whose research and teaching explore media or human communication practices as they intersect with issues of race and ethnicity. Areas of specialization may include but are not limited to the impact of emergent and traditional media to empower or marginalize minority communities, the representational politics of race, the history and agency of African-American and/or Latinx media, or the production of identity in popular culture and entertainment industries. The successful applicant must show a commitment to undergraduate education and to the advancement of undergraduate research and scholarship.

Application materials should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research statement, statement of teaching philosophy, three letters or recommendation, contact information for three references and one-two writing samples. Submit application materials to apply.interfolio.com/46093. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled; applications received by 12/30/17 are guaranteed full consideration.

Pace University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, women, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.